Nothing could fill the diseased fancies of men but dwelling on vulgar conflicts of animal ferocity, in which it was the whole ambition of the race to bring themselves down to a level with the brutes that perish. In their thirst for each others blood, they never stopped to think if their faculties could not be applied to some more useful and more dignified occupation than the art of mutual destruction. To aggravate the common misery was the common end. The human passions and the human mind seemed equally bent on one great business of carrying out a system of violence and wrong, which was to propagate wretchedness from age to age, pouring out its vials of unintermitted wrath, till that predicted time might come, when men shall beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into pruning-hooks, - when nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more. No importance, no dignity, comparatively, was attached to the cultivation of those arts of peace and those social virtues, which are the only true foundation of either national greatness or national welfare. The warrior, with his iron heel and blood-stained banner, was the idol of popular veneration. Thanks to the spread of knowledge and true religion, we may perceive, in these latter days, signs of better things for poor human nature. The streak...
